

Simplifying 3D work with virtual photo studios from DOSCH DESIGN

3D users can choose from 24 fully-textured studios complete with lighting, which can be used to ensure that products or packaging are given the perfect setting. No limits are placed on the designer's own creativity. The scenes can be used unchanged "out of the box" or reworked individually as required. A full set of fine-tuning options are available: whether materials, lighting, objects or render settings – everything can be configured to suit individual requirements. This creates fully personalised studio setups that reflect the designer's own creativity and are tailored to the corresponding product. This enables the creation of optimum presentations for catalogues, advertising or web-based product portals.

In addition, the scenes make outstanding visual demos and test setups with which newcomers to 3D can learn about the creation of effective scenes.

Both of the new products contain all of the 3D models shown, plus lighting, textures, material settings and HDRI environment maps. Render settings have of course been carefully chosen to ensure the best possible results and render times have also been optimised.

The DOSCH 3D: Photo Studios have been specially developed for use in Cinema 4D & AR3 or Maxwell Render and "speak the same language" as the 3D applications in question.

Pricing is EUR 119.00 for each product and orders can be placed directly on the website at www.doschdesign.com
